Managing Your Staff: How Do Firms Deal With the Intricacies of Employment Liability?

Date & Time: October 8, 2014, 1:00 – 2:00 pm eastern

Speakers: Jennifer Jackman, Esq.
Whiteford Taylor Preston, Washington, DC

Registration Site: <http://guest.cvent.com/>

Event Code: KMN7ZX3FTP6

Jennifer will discuss the challenges confronted by firms in the normal course of business operations. From the dangers of employee misclassification (including treating employees as independent contractors) to dealing with underproductive staff members, this webinar will explore the “cans” and “cannots” of employment processes and decisions. As the economy improves, firms must be aware of what is required by law in benefits and behavior, as well as what are “best practices” in hiring, retaining, and disciplining employees.

Jennifer S. Jackman is a partner in the Washington, DC office of the firm Whiteford Taylor Preston. Her practice focuses on labor and employment counseling for employers, as well as defending her clients in federal and local administrative and judicial forums against employment-related claims, such as wrongful discharge, whistleblower claims, discrimination, and harassment. She has represented both large and small businesses and nonprofit associations in a wide range of employment law issues, including general employment counseling, anti-harassment training, implementation of policies and handbooks, separation and hiring issues, and investigation of employee claims of discrimination and grievances.

She is a 1998 graduate from the University of Baltimore School of Law and holds an L.L.M. in litigation and alternative dispute resolution from The George Washington University School of Law. Jennifer is admitted to practice in Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.
